

ART 6.2.3.4 Conduct External Supported Personnel Recovery

Conduct external supported personnel recovery when immediate or deliberate recovery is not feasible or was not successful. External supported personnel recovery is either the support provided by the Army to other joint task force components, interagency organizations, or multinational forces or the support provided by these entities to the Army. Close air support); intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance (ISR), and airborne command and control are examples of capabilities that may be required from different components to execute an external supported recovery.

NO.	Scale	Measure
01	Yes/No	Planning system enforced to provide timely reporting; unit accurately reported validation and determined location; and unit rapidly disseminated the information to the entire PR architecture for coordinated response.
02	Yes/No	The system provided for accurate record keeping without degrading the PR effort.
03	Yes/No	The primary mission continued parallel to the recovery effort.
05	Yes/No	Unit provided the support required to support an external support requirement.
06	Yes/No	Unit transmitted a request for external support as necessary.

Supporting Collective Tasks:

Task No.	Title	Proponent	Echelon
71-8-6236	Coordinate Personnel Recovery (Brigade - Corps)	71 - Combined Arms (Collective)	Corps