

ART 7.4.2.2 Conduct Civil Disturbance Operations

Army forces assist civil authorities in restoring law and order when state and local law enforcement agencies are unable to control civil disturbances. The Army National Guard is the first military responder during most civil disturbance situations. It usually remains on state active-duty status throughout the operation. When conditions of domestic violence and disorder endanger life and property to the extent that state law enforcement agencies, to include the Army National Guard, cannot suppress violence and restore law and order, the President may federalize Army National Guard units under Title 10, U.S. Code, Chapter 15. The President may use federalized Army National Guard and federal forces to restore law and order. Restrictions may be placed on federal military forces either in the executive order directing their use or through the rules for the use of force outlined in the DOD Civil Disturbance Plan.
