

ART 1.1.1.2 Conduct Home Station Mobilization Activities

This task involves activities of Reserve Components at home station after receiving a mobilization order followed by entry onto Federal active duty or other command and control changes. It includes taking action to speed transition to active duty status, such as identifying shortages of critical personnel and equipment. Task activities include inventorying unit property, dispatching an advance party to the mobilization station, and loading the unit on organic equipment or designated carriers. Movement is coordinated with state area commands defense movement coordinator, unit movement coordinator, installation transportation offices, and Military Surface Deployment and Distribution Command. (FM 3-35) (CASCOM)
